In [1]:
```
#Mobile Market Share
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

brand = ["Samsung","Apple","Xiaomi","Oppo","Others"] share = [30,25,20,15,10]

plt.pie(share,labels=brand,autopct="%1.1f%%") plt.title("Mobile Market Share")
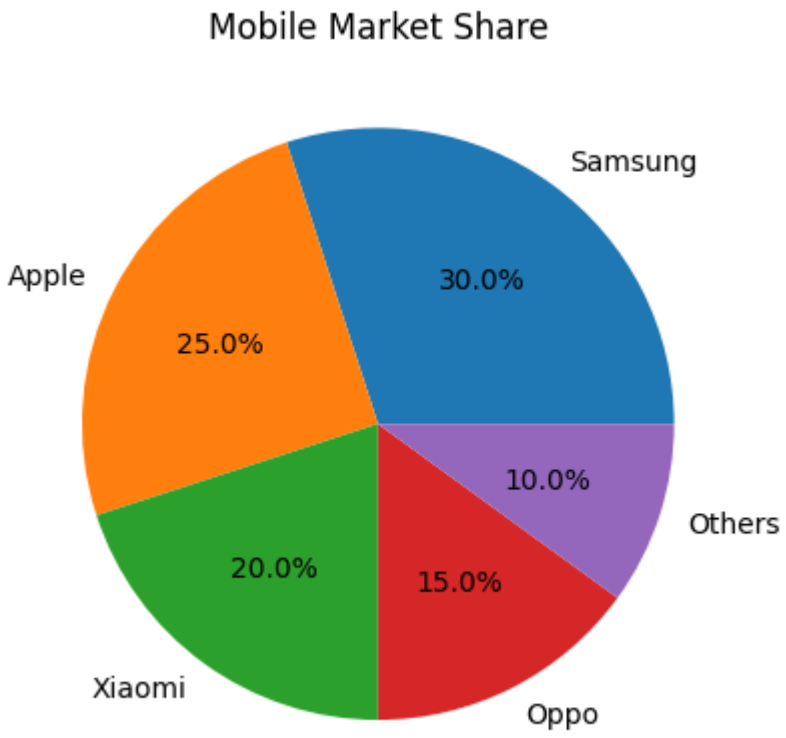
plt.show()
```



In [2]:
```
#Student Course Distribution
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

course = ["Python","Java","C++","Web","AI"] students = [40,35,25,30,20]

plt.pie(students,labels=course,autopct="%1.1f%%") plt.title("Student Course Distribution")
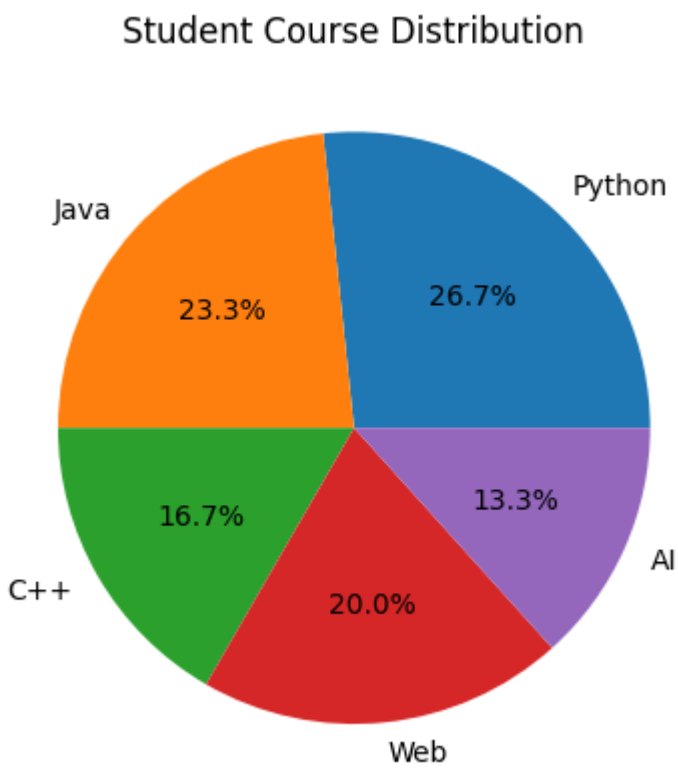
plt.show()
```



In [3]:
```
#Monthly Expense Distribution
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

category = ["Food","Rent","Travel","Shopping","Bills"] amount = [5000,12000,3000,4000,2500] plt.pie(amount,labels=category,autopct="%1.1f%%") plt.title("Monthly Expense Distribution")

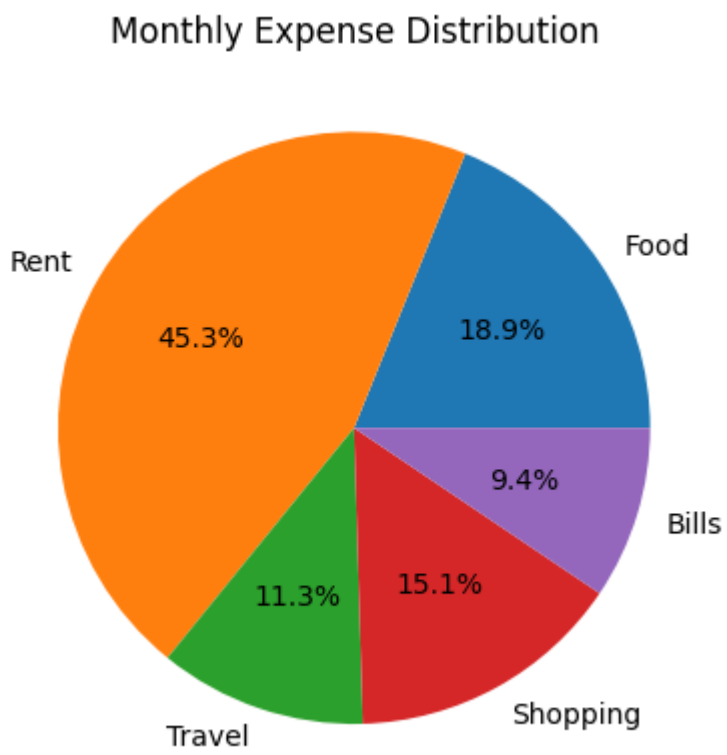
plt.show()
```



In [4]:
```
#Browser Usage Share
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

browser = ["Chrome","Edge","Firefox","Safari","Others"] users = [60,15,10,10,5]

plt.pie(users,labels=browser,autopct="%1.1f%%") plt.title("Browser Usage Share")
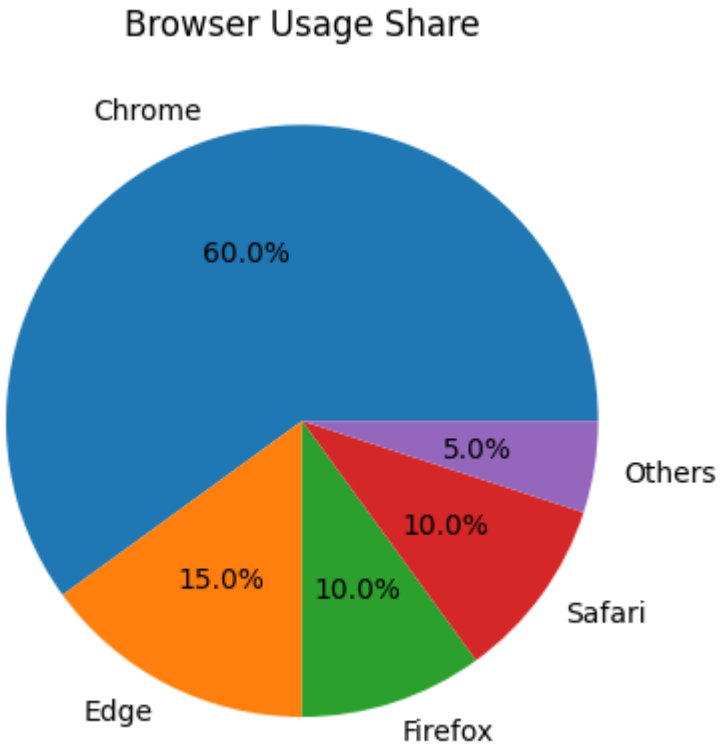
plt.show()
```



In [5]:
```
#Programming Language Popularity
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

language = ["Python","Java","C++","JavaScript","Others"] popularity = [35,25,15,15,10]

plt.pie(popularity,labels=language,autopct="%1.1f%%") plt.title("Programming Language Popularity")
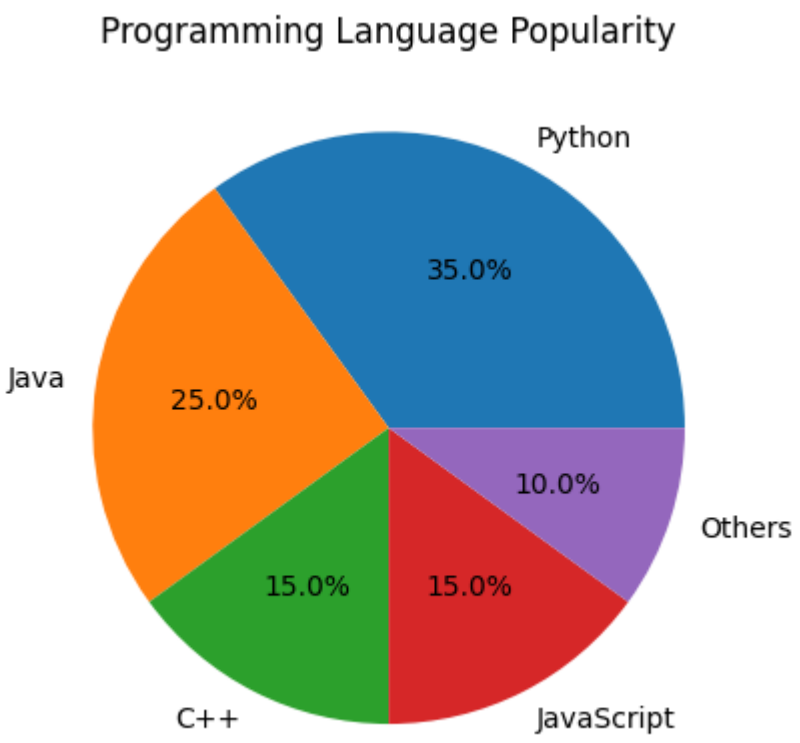
plt.show()
```



In [6]:
```
#Social Media Usage
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

platform = ["Instagram","Facebook","Twitter","Snapchat","Others"]
users = [40,30,10,10,10]

plt.pie(users,labels=platform,autopct="%1.1f%%") plt.title("Social Media Usage")
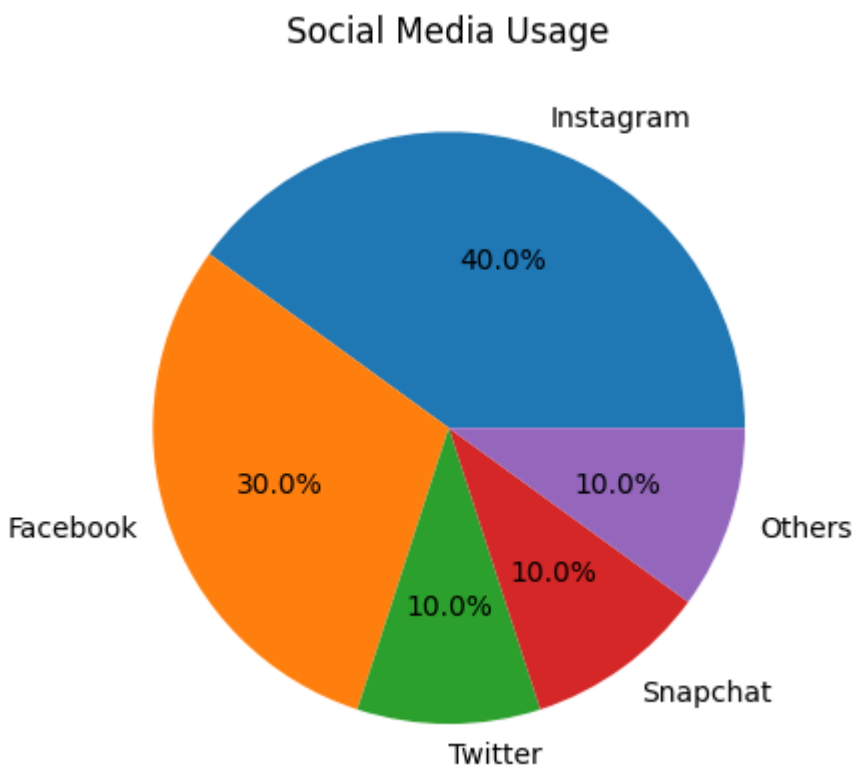
plt.show()
```



In [7]:
```
#Company Department Budget
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

dept = ["HR","IT","Sales","Finance","Support"] budget = [10,35,25,15,15]

plt.pie(budget,labels=dept,autopct="%1.1f%%") plt.title("Company Department Budget")
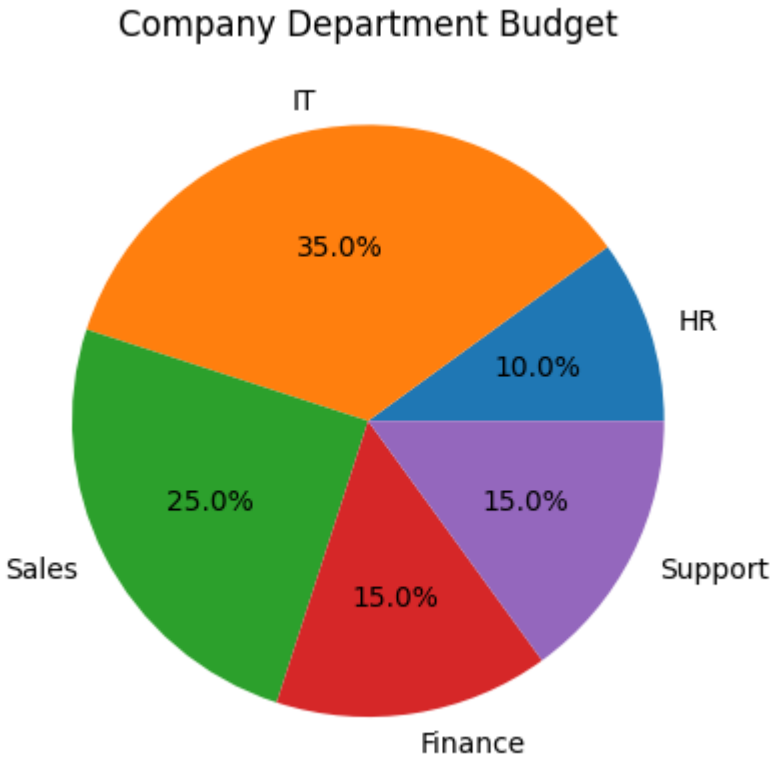
plt.show()
```



In [9]:
```
#Transport Usage
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

transport = ["Bus","Car","Bike","Metro","Others"]
users = [25,30,20,15,10]

plt.pie(users,labels=transport,autopct="%1.1f%%") plt.title("Transport Usage")
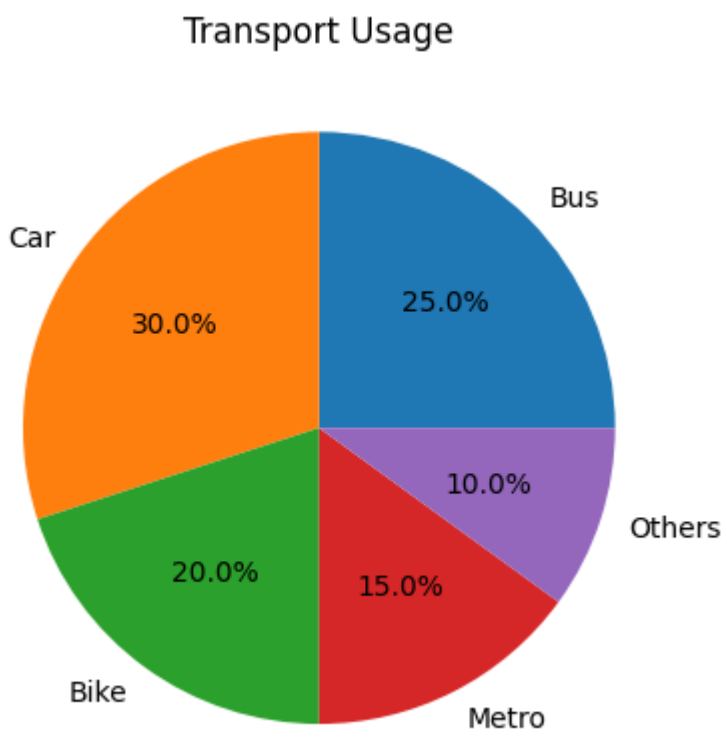
plt.show()
```



In [10]:
```
#Device Usage
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

device = ["Mobile","Laptop","Tablet","Desktop","Others"] usage = [50,25,10,10,5]

plt.pie(usage,labels=device,autopct="%1.1f%%") plt.title("Device Usage")
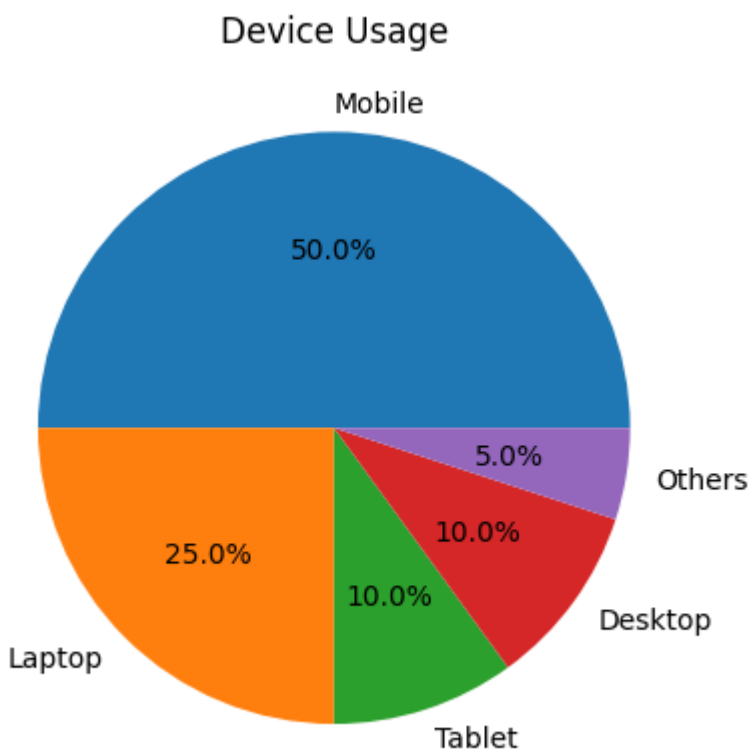
plt.show()
```



In [11]:
```
#Electricity Usage by Appliance
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

appliance = ["AC","Fridge","Fan","TV","Others"]
usage = [35,25,15,10,15]

plt.pie(usage,labels=appliance,autopct="%1.1f%%") plt.title("Electricity Usage by Appliance")
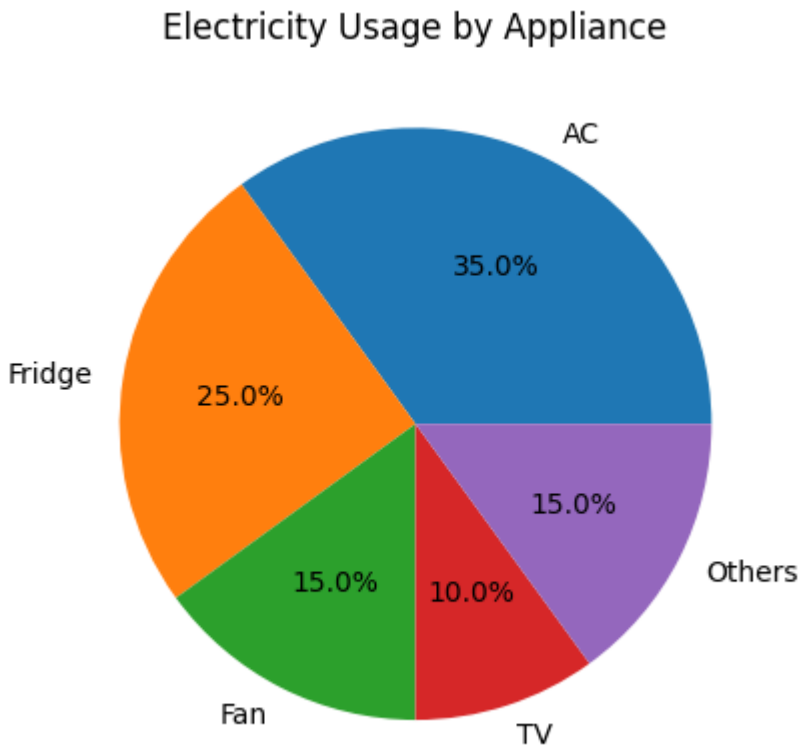
plt.show()
```



In [ ]: